

"The Magi (Wise Men) left for their own country by another way"
Matthew 2:20 (NASB).

Next, they were going to go home, most likely the same way they came, but their next shaped up very differently and put them on a very different and nervous route. What is your "next"? Are you finding yourself on a very unfamiliar stretch on the road of life? Do you just want to go home?

There was no time to do a lot of thinking or even praying, life can be like that, a warning from God in a dream (I wonder if all the Magi had the same dream?) and then the next morning with a decision to make, "Do we stick with the plan, or do we reroute, tick off King Herod and put ourselves in danger? Strange how God's will, God's directions are not always safe. I wonder how often we find ourselves taking the wrong route because we are obsessed with safety more than obedience?

"Get up! Take the Child and His mother and flee to Egypt, and remain there until I tell you; for Herod is going to search for the Child to destroy Him" Matthew 2:13 (NASB).

I can guarantee that's not what a first-time Dad wants to hear or do, go on the run for your life with your wife and newborn, and be refugees. I imagine when it came to their "next," the plan and dream were to go back to Nazareth, make a home, expand the business, and live a full and quiet life. Have you ever thought that for God to protect you, work out his will in your life, you might have to put your dreams on hold, be far home, have moments of sheer panic, and live an entirely different life? Think about all the things Joseph could have thought of that would've kept him from getting up, packing up, and call an Uber in the middle of the night to take them as quickly and as far Bethlehem as possible.

Strange, isn't it, first God has the entire Roman world on the move so pregnant Mary and Joseph inconveniently would end up in Bethlehem at just the right time, only to have them on a dead run out of Bethlehem under cover of darkness just a little later. How often do you think they wished they could just be back home, prayed that their next "next" would be calmer, more settled? How often do think Joseph thought back, was glad and rejoiced that he had enough sense to let God direct his "next"?

The shepherds went back, glorifying and praising God for all that they had heard and seen, just as had been told them" Luke 2:20 (NASB).

I love coming home; the life God has called me to. I am not sure if that was true of those shepherds, but they did go back. Back to their sheep out in the fields, back to their lives in and around Bethlehem, back to all that was familiar to them. The only detour they had to take was through the dark streets of the little town of Bethlehem, whooping and hollering the praises to God. I always wondered how many times they had stumbled through those streets in the wee hours of the morning before, whooping and hollering different things after they hung out at the local bar/inn?

What we do know is that they sounded very much like the Heavenly Host they had heard praising God earlier in the night. Their "next", their walking home looked and sounded very differently from before they had encountered God, before they saw Jesus. Is that true of you? What kind of impact did that night, that Jesus encounter, have over all of the "nexts" of the rest of the lives of those shepherds? Did it make a difference in their lives, in their homes, in their shepherding/business the next day, and day after that, and the day ..., what do you think?

Here we are at the eve of 2025, 2026 is next, 365 days of "nexts". Maybe you will be able to spend it at home, in your Bethlehem, where things a familiar. Maybe you will wake up in the middle of the night, and everything is changing more quickly than you'd thought is possible. Maybe you will find yourself in situations and places that were not part of your plans. Maybe you will be left breathless and wondering how in the world this could be of God. Maybe you see and hear God as plain as the shepherds did. Whatever may come, I pray you and I will be found ready to adjust our route, quickly adjusting ourselves to every prompt and revelation God gives us, continually growing in our faith and obedience no matter what the next "next" looks like, and always praising and glorifying God with all of hearts, voice, and being.

To God be all glory. Happy New Year, Paxtor Hans
